

My future – by some of the Foundation children

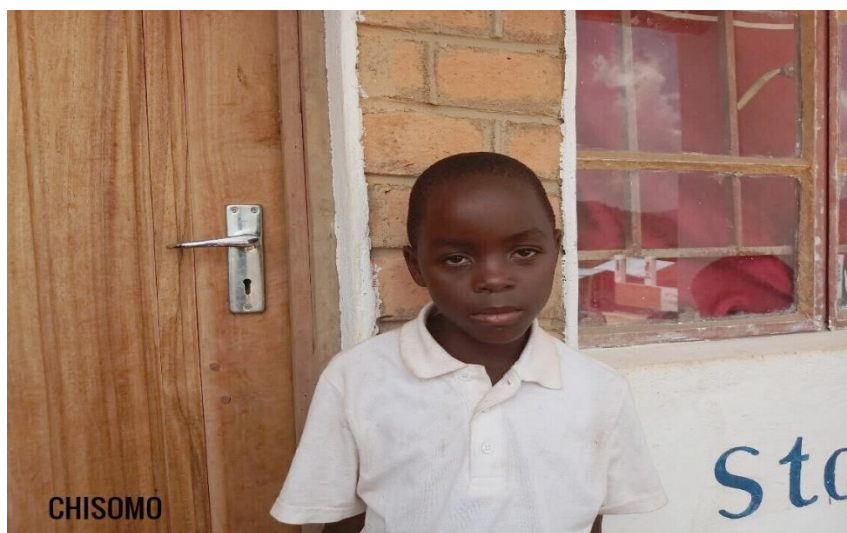

On the run up to Christmas, we had a different sort of advent calendar on facebook – introducing some of the children. Levison took photos of them and asked them to write a little about themselves and what they did at or liked about the Foundation. They wrote from the heart; three of them wrote about their hopes for their future.

My name is Robert Kaonga.

I like eating nsima with beans and also working in the Foundation garden.

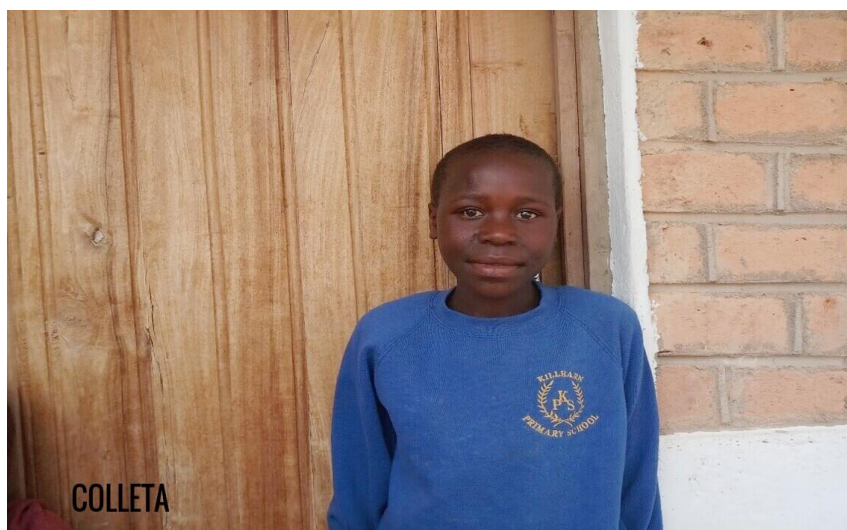

When I grow up I would like to be a farmer so that I can feed all the old people

My name is Chisomo Siyame

When I grow up I would like to become a social welfare officer so that I help all those with social problems.

I am ten years old.

Hello, my name is Colleta Nyondo.

I like looking after chooks and growing vegetables.

When I grow up I want to be a farmer so that I feed all the orphans in Malawi
