It is with enormous pride that I am bringing you this special edition of the Foundation Newsletter.

When Levison was a teacher he started studying for his BSc but found himself unable to continue.

During this last year, however, a sponsor funded him to enable him to use credits from the previous years' study and continue on with his degree.

So, after the Foundation work had finished for the day, Levison went home and pored over his books by torchlight (it gets dark at 6.00 pm in Malawi).

He made several visits to the Lilongwe University of Agriculture and Natural Resources (Bunda Campus) to sit exams and at the beginning of November he left the building work in the capable hands of his team and went to the University to defend his dissertation and sit his finals – two exams per day.

He was successful and achieved his BSc in Agricultural Education. All the subjects which he had previously chosen to study, and this year, are of direct relation and of benefit to the Foundation.

This week he and his family – Jane his wife and Deborah his daughter – travelled to Lilongwe for his graduation.

I have the greatest pleasure in including these photos. From all of us at the Foundation – very well done, Levison.
